

Bumblebees are continuing to nurture your children and encourage them to find their own interests and to use these to enhance and build their knowledge in many ways.

We look at things that spark their individual interests and would love to know what they are enjoying doing with you at home.

We would be grateful if you could jot a few ideas down on here and send it back to us as soon as possible.